

Montana Matters

Montana Wildlife Federation and the International Wildlife Film Festival – Montana Matters project – realized a success at its “Songs of Montana” – Collaboration for Conservation Concert – September 18 at the Wilma Theatre in Missoula. The purpose of the project is “...to promote and enhance the value, visibility, awareness and stewardship of Montana’s wildlife and wildlife habitat” and nearly 400 people attended the concert to support this effort.

The audience shook the house as five (5) of Montana’s own best musicians joined Montana Matters troubadour Shane Clouse. According to Clouse, “Public feedback from the concert has been overwhelmingly positive.”

MWF extends its most sincere thanks to artists Shane Clouse, Jack Gladstone, Tom Catmull, Bob Wire, John Floridis, and Jessica Kilroy for giving back to Montana and the Montana Matters project with their astonishing talents. Thanks too to the IWFF staff that made the concert a reality.
